EDITOR'S PREFACE.

It is proper to state here, that, as Miss Pierson in undertaking missionary labor in China with her brother, was necessarily unable to oversee the labors of issuing her work from the press, this duty was entrusted to myself with the liberal privileges of editor, which privileges, however, I should add, have very rarely been exercised beyond the mere correction of proof.

I wish also to add my testimony that the author has been indefatigable in collecting the records of these families and that all the descendants of the Puritan ancestors whose genealogy has been traced in this book have reason to congratulate themselves in the fidelity with which she has executed her work.

GEO. R. HOWELL.

Albany, March, 1878.

INTRODUCTION.

The object of this Pierson Record is to collect and compile the various and fragmentary records of the different branches of the family in America, that the present and future generations may have better knowledge of their relations one to the other, and that the links connecting us with our worthy sires and Pilgrim Fathers may not disappear altogether. With this in view the compiler has spent many hours in correspondence, and in personal interviews with many individuals of the family, and has listened to many a detail of family history, and has made such selections as should be preserved. She now takes great pleasure in presenting the result of her labors to all who may be interested in the book. There has been no attempt at elaboration, but in all instances, clearness, precision and honesty. By inquiries among the different branches of the name, a hope was entertained of discovering the relationship of all or of the principal emigrants of the name, to this country ; but the records which have been preserved are so meagre and disconnected that this is quite impossible (at least so far as has been discovered) ; therefore, the present generations have been traced back, each to its progenitor in this country ; and the most the compiler can do is to present it in this form, writing out each branch as found, from the known progenitor, and trusting that some one, somehow, may have further means of information and be able to connect the different branches with the main root which was nourished on English soil, in the distant past. An attempt has been made in England also, to find from old records an account of the emigration to America of Rev. Abraham (see English note 63) and his contemporaries, hoping thus to learn if Abraham, Thomas and Henry, were “the three brothers, who together left their native land, and sought a home on the rocky shores of New England.”

For the benefit of such as are ignorant of the fact, it may be stated that there are in England state papers and other records, which give the names and place of residence in England, and other particulars, of those who sailed from England with the name of ship and date of sailing. From such records many American families have found a clue to their English ancestry ; but all such research (thus far) has failed to show us in what vessels our ancestors crossed the Atlantic.

It may yet be found in the old Dutch records at Leyden, or may still be buried in the uncatalogued mass of documents in the British record office. Abraham, Thomas, Henry, both Johns, and possibly Stephen, were among those who left their English homes in pursuit of religious freedom, and suffered persecution because they desired purity of religion. Many of those thus persecuted, called Puritans, sought refuge in Leyden and other parts of Holland. Some of these people sailed directly from Holland to America, while most of them first returned to England, and from there sailed to America. While an effort was made to keep a record of all who left the country, it was quite impossible to do this, as we are told that between 1620 and 1640 some 4,000 families or 21,000 British subjects came to America.

The two Johns, coming in 1637 and 1643, settled in Massachusetts, and their families have remained mostly in New England.

Rev. Abraham came first to Boston in 1639, was on Long Island a short time, but his life and labors were particularly in Branford, Ct., and in Newark, N. J. The most of his descendants are in N. J., N. Y. and Conn.

Henry is first found on Long Island in 1640, where his life was spent, and with the exception of his son Benjamin (who removed to N. J.) his children remained on the island, and the most of his descendants have continued in that vicinity. Thomas, Sen., first appeared on record at Branford, Conn. The town records of Branford state that "Thos. Pierson, Sen., mar. Mary Harrison, 1662." He removed to N. J., and his descendants are mainly in that vicinity.

Stephen came to Derby, Ct., in 1666, and his descendants are mostly in Conn. Three generations of this line have lived on Old Meeting-house hill, in Derby. Those who were Quakers mainly settled in Pennsylvania.

As a race the Piersons are intellectual and educated; and while they are somewhat reserved in manner and averse to much demonstration of feeling, they may be said to be genuine and honest, endued with their full share of independence of thought and action, with tenacity of purpose (sometimes to obstinacy), fidelity to one another and to their country, and a high sense of honor, with a respect and reverence for the religion of their forefathers, while the most of them have manifested a spirit of deep and earnest piety. Many of them have been graduated at our colleges and seminaries, and have filled posts of honor and usefulness; while others, without a college education, have served their country and generation faithfully.

After an extensive research among the different branches of the family, the compiler takes pleasure in adding that no traitor to his country has been found among them; and that we need not be ashamed of the name which has descended to us, and which marks among the earliest settlers of our beloved land such men as the 1st and 2d Rev. Abraham, and Henry, and Thomas and John Pierson, men guided by high and noble principle, whose allegiance was to the triume God, who dared the perils of the sea and life on a rocky, desolate coast, because the love of liberty in religion and government, demanded a fresher atmosphere than old England extended to them.

It may be found that some items and dates in the following records are inaccurate. If so, it is because the compiler has been misinformed, though great care and caution have been used in obtaining the information.

To all who have rendered assistance in contributing data and other information, I would return many thanks. If others who have been addressed had taken interest in the work, and contributed concerning their branches, our genealogical tree would have been more fully leaved. But with its imperfections, let the present generation of Piersons receive it, at the hand of the willing compiler,

THE NAME PIERSON.

Various theories have been advanced as to the origin of the name ; some saying "the rays of the sun pierce," etc. But it is more reasonable to suppose that it comes from the son of Pierre, or Peter, through the French ; and further back, from the Danish Peterson. The spelling of the name has been varied, by different individuals. Indeed, different members of the same family have adopted Piersons, Pearson, Person, Peirson, and even Parsons, from some whim or fancy, or as a matter of convenience. Local associations have sometimes caused the change. 1637, is the earliest date in our American records of the appearance of the name. In England we find the name used as early as the first part of the 15th century, in Yorkshire. It was variously spelled then and there, too, as a perusal of the English Notes, will show. Our English research has also contributed the following: Pierson is considered to be the most correct manner of spelling the name, as deduced through the French Pierre, from the original Danish Peterson, a name still known in Scandinavia, and illustrated by the hospitable Gustavus Vasa, while concealed amid the wilds of Dalecarlia. ¹

The immediate tradition of the family is that it was established in an honorable and independent condition from a very early period, in the East Riding, of the county of York.

Hotten in his List of Emigrants to America, between 1600 and 1700, mentions also Peireson and Peirceson. And Savage in the Gen. Register, gives Pier-ei-ea-er and orsune, as one and the same name.

As to the choice in the manner of spelling the name, the best authority seems to be for Pierson. Among all the emigrants to this country from old England, Rev. Abraham Pierson stands preëminent as the scholar, and he has left us Pierson.

¹ There can be no doubt as to the origin of the name. The baptismal name Pierre (as it is in the French language), as it passed into England after the conquest often took the form of Piers, thus becoming half anglicized. And when surnames began to be used, John the son of Will, became John Wilson, and his neighbor John the son of Piers, became John Pierson.— G. R. H

TERMS AND ABBREVIATIONS USED IN THE RECORDS.

Each of the founders of a family in this country, as Rev. Abraham, Henry, etc., is numbered 1 ; and each of their descendants receives a number before his or her name, which is never applied to any other name, to distinguish such person wherever mentioned.

Superior. The superior, or small number at the upper, right hand corner of each name, indicates the generation to which he belongs, in this country : as Joseph² Pierson indicates that he was of the 2d gen., in America. Thus, 4 Joseph² Pierson, is number four from Henry¹, and of the 2d generation.

After stating a family, first the line of the oldest son is given, down to the present gen., or as far as can be ascertained ; then the line of the 2d son is given, in like manner, etc.

Italics. Names printed in italics indicate those whose lines of descent are given through one or more generations.

FAMILY OF REV. ABRAHAM PIERSON,

WHO EMIGRATED TO AMERICA IN 1639.

In 1613, ¹ Abraham ¹ Pierson was born in Yorkshire, England. Grad. at Trinity coll., Cambridge, 1632; in pursuit of religious freedom came to America, 1639. He was in Boston and Lynn, Mass. 1640; went to Southampton, Long Island, where he remained till 1647; then removed to Branford, Ct.; from which place he again removed, in 1666, to Newark, New Jersey, where he died,¹ Aug. 9, 1678. His wife was Abigail, dau. of Rev. Jno. Wheelwright of Lincolnshire, Eng., who removed to New Hampshire.

Before leaving England he was Episcopally ordained, and preached there for awhile. In the cause of religious liberty he sought America; was ordained in Boston, as a Congregational minister. At Lynn 1640, "finding themselves straightened, about 40 families, with Pierson as their minister," departed from Lynn, and attempted to make a settlement on the west end of Long Island. But the Dutch had made sure of that end, so they repaired to the east end, and laid the foundations of Southampton.² The 1st ch. of that town was started as a Cong. ch., but it afterwards became Presb.³ Thus was there settled a ch. at S., under the paternal care of this worthy man; where he did with a laudable diligence undergo two of the three hard labors, teaching and governing, to make it become what Paradise was called "The island of the Innocents." He was most rigid in his desire to have the "civil as well as the ecclesiastical power all vested in the church, and to allow none but church members to act in the choice of officers of gov't, or to be eligible as such." This led to a division of the colony⁴; and in 1647, Pierson,

² He was appointed by a council of ministers in Boston in October 1640 to be the pastor of a people who had gone from Lynn and effected a settlement called Southampton on Long Island in June of that year and was installed as pastor at a formal establishment of his church at Lynn in Nov. of the same year. Doubtless a few of the Southampton people went over to Lynn to be ordained as ruling elders and deacons, and with others about to emigrate from Lynn to the new colony, formed the nucleus of the church which upon their arrival on L. I. immediately received the remainder already there. These colonists had attempted in May 1640 a settlement at the west end of the island, but had been driven off by the Dutch who claimed the land; they immediately collected their goods and sailed eastward and bought land of the Indians and founded Southampton the first town settled by the English in the state of New York.—G. R. II.

with a small part of his cong., attempted another settlement, across the sound, on the Conn. shore. They organized and formed the town of Branford. Here, for 20 yrs., he "enjoyed the confidence and esteem not only of the ministers, but the more prominent civilians connected with the N. H. colony." He early interested himself in behalf of the Indians, made himself familiar with their language, and prepared a catechism for them, that they might know of the one true God. Pierson was to the Indians of Conn. what Eliot and Mayhew were to those of Mass. Winthrop says "he was a Godly learned man," and Mather says, "wherever he came he shone."¹ "He united with Jno. Davenport in opposing the union of the two colonies, the Conn. and the N. H. colonies, 1665, with great inflexibility. He was rigid to excess in ch. communion, and disapproved of the liberality of the clergy in the Conn. colony, in this respect; he differed with them upon the ordinance of infant baptism, etc.; as no person in the N. H. colony could be made a freeman unless he was in full communion with the church. He fully agreed with D. and others in the colony, that no other gov't than that of the church should be maintained in the col. and opposed any union with Conn., (for the reason "that a good character and an orderly walk, with an estate of £30, or had held office in the col. was all that was required to make a man a freeman in the col. of Conn,"—which would mar the order and purity of the churches. On this account he refused to unite with the Conn. col., and in 1666, he, with most of his congregation, left Branford,² and repaired to N. J. There, on the Passaic, they purchased land of the Indians, and laid the foundations of the now flourishing city of Newark.³ During '66 and '67 some sixty-five efficient men came from Branford and two neighboring towns to Newark. Each man was entitled to a homestead lot of six acres.⁴ They brought their church organization with them from B., and became the 1st ch. of Newark. (This afterwards became a Pres. ch.) Here, for 12 yrs. the good man Abraham led his flock of devoted followers; and ⁵"his life, full of piety to God, and service to his fellow men, has left behind it precious memorials, and his name deserves to be kept fragrant, and surely it will be as long as Christian piety, and holy energy and zeal, are held in estimation,

² Trumbull's History of Conn. states that "Rev. Abraham Pierson and his church carried off the church and town records of Branford, Ct., to Newark, N. J., in 1666-7." This statement, however, is incorrect, for in Branford are to be found now the town records extending back to 1644.

He h. chd. 2 *Abraham*², b. 1641 at Lynn, Mass., d. May 5, 1707, at Killingworth, Ct.; 3 *Thomas*², Jr, b. 1641-2 at Southampton, L. I., d. before 1684 in Newark; 4 *John*², b. 1643 at So'ton, d. before 1671; 5 *Abigail*², b. 1644 mar. 1663, at Branford, John Davenport Jr. (son of Jno. Davenport, 1st minister of N. Haven); 6 *Grace*², b. 1650 at Branford, mar. Sam. Kitchell (afterwards of Newark); 7 *Susanna*², b. Dec. 1652 at Branford, mar. Jonathan Ball (of Stamford); 8 *Rebecca*², b. 1654 at Branford, d. Nov. 1732, mar. Jos. Johnson (of Newark); 9 *Theophilus*², b. 1659 at B. d. 1713 in Newark; 10 *Isaac*²; and 11 *Mary*²...

2 *Abraham*² Pierson (Rev. and rector) was b. 1641 at Lynn, Mass, and d. May 5, 1707 at Old Killingworth (now Clinton) Conn. He was with his fath. at So'ton, removed to Branford; while there mar. Abigail Clark (dau. of Geo. Clark of Milford): grad. at Harvard coll. 1668, and removed with his fath. to the new settlement of Newark. At that time the people of Woodbridge (a neighboring settlement in N. J.) sought the young Abr. as their pastor. But as his fath. was advanced in years, and in need of an assistant, the town at once secured young Abraham and settled him as colleague with Rev. Abraham, July 28, 1669. At the death of his fath. 1678, he became sole pastor, which office he filled till 1692: then he returned to Conn. In 1694 he became pastor of the ch. at Killingworth, which position he retained even after he was chosen pres. In 1701, when the wise fathers established Yale coll., 2 Abraham was made her president or "rector;" thus, for the last six yrs. of his life did he perform the duties of both pastor and rector. (See Note I.) Sprague, in his Yale Coll. and its Alumni, says: "And first comes Abraham Pierson (among the presidents) a man around whose character and history, the shadows of a century and a half have gathered, but who has still left memorials enough of his honorable and useful career, to insure immortality to his name. The cause of education he looked upon as twin-sister to the cause of religion; and hence he was identified with the project for establishing the college, and not only his high appreciation of learning, but his own liberal attainments, designated him as the proper man to be placed at the head. His death produced a double chasm, and both learning and religion wept beside his grave." Stearns says, "You perceive in him one of the best specimens of the first growth of the American colonies. And tradition represents him as an excellent preacher, and an exceedingly pious and good man." Trumbull says, "He had the character of a hard student, a good scholar, and a great divine. In his whole conduct he was wise, steady, and admirable: was greatly respected as a pastor, and he instructed and governed the coll. with general approbation." He was a portly, comely, and well favored man. While his father was a strict Independent, he was a Moderate Presbyterian. Two fine monuments have been erected to his memory, one in Old Killingworth (or Kennilworth), the other on the grounds of Yale coll., N. Haven.

He h. chd. 12 *Abraham*³, b. 1680 at Newark, d. 1752 at Clinton, Conn.; 13 *Sarah*³; 14 *Susanna*³; 15 *Mary*³; 16 *Hannah*³; 17 *Ruth*³; 18 *James*³; 19 *Abigail*³; 20 *John*³, b. 1689 at Newark, d. Aug. 23, 1770, at Hanover, N. J.

12 *Abraham*³ Pierson (Worshipful) was b. 1680, at Newark, mar. Mrs. Mary Hart, 1712, d. Jan'y 8, 1752. He was an old colonial magistrate, in Conn., of great learning and usefulness, and a pillar in the church and state. Died on Long Hill, in Killingworth. He h. chd. 24 *Jedediah*⁴, b. Sept. 17, 1711; 25 *Mary*⁴, b. Feb. 10, 1713; 26 *John*⁴, b. May 13, 1717; 27 *Phineas*⁴, b. Dec. 29, 1718; 28 *Samuel*⁴, b. Apr. 15, 1721, d. 1801; 29 *Dodo*⁴, b. 1724, d. Jan'y 19, 1796; 30 *Nathan*⁴, b. Mar. 24, 1726; 31 *Sarah*⁴, b. Aug. 8, 1728; and 32 *Sarah*⁴, b. July 9, 1732. These were all probably born at Killingworth, Ct.

28 *Samuel*⁴ Pierson, was b. Apr. 15, 1721, d. 1801, prob. at Killingworth. This family bore an important part in the town and church interests of old Killingworth. A godly, and scholarly ancestry was their inheritance. Samuel had chd. 50 *Submit*⁵; 51 *Lydia*⁵; 52 *Sarah*⁵; 53 *Samuel*⁵, b. July 29, 1750, d. 1801; 54 *Martha*⁵; 55 *Rachel*⁵; 56 *Sarah*⁵.

53 *Samuel*⁵ Pierson was born July 29, 1750, at Killingworth, and died in 1801, it being the same year in which his father died; mar. Rebecca Parmele, in 1773. He had chd. 79 *John Russell*⁶, b. Nov. 30, 1773, d. 1844; 80 *Lydia*⁶; 81 *Simon*⁶; 82 *Josiah*⁶, b. Mar. 19, 1781; 83 *John*⁶; 84 *Elizabeth*⁶; 85 *Philo*⁶; 86 *Thankful*⁶; 87 *Sally*⁶; 88 *Linus*⁶.

79 *John Russell*⁶ Pierson, was born in Killingworth, Nov. 30, 1773, and died in 1844. In 1815, he emigrated from Conn., to the Genesee co., N. York, and there joined his five brothers who had preceded him, by a few years. He had chd. 124 *Luther G.*⁷; b. 1800, d. Nov. 26, 1862; 125 *Edwin*⁷, b. 1805, d. Mar. 12, 1867; 126 *Samuel Willis*⁷, b. 1813; 127 *John B.*⁷; 128 *Adolphus*⁷; 129 *Mary*⁷, d. 1829; 130 *Phileta*⁷.

126 *Samuel Willis*⁷ Pierson (Rev.) was born in Killingworth (now Clinton) Conn., in 1813. While young, he was brought to Genesee co., N. Y. In 1833, he mar. Aurilla Tullar. He is a minister of the gospel. "He has not been engaged in the sacred office, for several years, but is still an active member of the Cong. church, and a man of weight and influence in the church and community. Of venerable appearance, exceptionally pure life and an amiable disposition, he is beloved by a wide circle of friends and acquaintance." He resides in Painsville, Ohio. He had chd. 187 *Samuel Fletcher*⁸, b. 1835; 188 *Mary E.*⁸, b. 1838 (w. of S. C. Hotchkiss, and has 3 chd.); 189 *Martha M.*⁸, b. 1839 (w. of S. E. Fink, and has 4 chd.).

187 *Samuel Fletcher*⁸ Pierson was born 1835, mar. 1st, Mary F. Bower and 2d Deborah I. McWade. Now is in Cleveland, Ohio, connected with the C. C. C., and I. R. R.

81 *Simon*⁶ Pierson was born in Killingworth, Ct. In 1806-7, he and his four younger brothers emigrated to Genesee co., N. Y., which was then a "howling wilderness,"

"Where nothing dwelt but beasts of prey,
Or men as fierce and wild as they."

He had chd. 131 *Philo*⁷; 132 *David M.*⁷; 133 *Clarkson*⁷.

82 *Josiah*⁶ Pierson (Rev.), was born in Killingworth (Clinton), Ct., on Mar. 19, 1781, and died Mar. 6, 1846, in Bergen, N. Y. In 1806, he emigrated, in company with his brothers, to Bergen, Genesee co., N. Y., where the remainder of his life was spent. He was a minister of the gospel; and had chd. 134 *Hamilton W.*⁷; 135 *Ebenezer*⁷; 136 *Josiah*⁷; 137 *Parmelia*⁷ (w. of Henry Dibble, Bergen, N. Y.); 138 *Carlos*⁷.

134 *Hamilton Wilcox*⁷ Pierson (D. D.), was born at Bergen, N. Y.; educated at Union coll., and at Union Theo. sem.; was elected president of Columbia coll., Ky., 1858: is the author of Jefferson at Monticello, and the Private Life of Thos. Jefferson, and other works. He remained at his post, in Ky., till forced to leave, in the time of the rebellion. Now in western N. Y.

83 *John*⁶ Pierson, was born in Killingworth (Clinton), Conn.; and emigrated to Genesee co., N. Y., in 1806-7. He had chd. 139 *Harlow W.*⁷; and one daughter.

85 *Philo*⁶ Pierson, was born in Killingworth (Clinton), Conn., and emigrated, with his brothers, to Genesee co., N. Y., in 1806-7. He had chd. 140 *William*⁷; 141 *Daniel*⁷; and several daughters.

88 *Linus*⁶ Pierson, was born in Killingworth (Clinton), Conn., and removed, with his brothers, to Genesee co., N. Y., in 1806-7. He had chd. 142 *Edward*⁷; and two daughters.

29 *Dodo*⁷ Pierson (Dea.), was b. 1724, at Killingworth (Clinton), Conn.; and died at the same place, January 19, 1796. Tradition says that a maiden aunt objected to having such a name as Dodo put upon the child; but her objections were overruled, and he was so named; and the name of "Dea. Dodo Pierson," now stands out bright and honored in the annals of old Killingworth. He lived during the revolutionary war, and took an active part in the service of his country. "It appears from a letter from Jeh'd Ward, that Dodo went down to Rye, Westchester co., N. Y., when the army was encamped there, either as a volunteer in the service, or perhaps to make a visit to his son; at any rate, there being some call for more force, the old man took his musket and went on duty, as a sentinel. This led Mr. Ward to write as follows: 'I believe, that through the blessing of God, we shall have better times before long. I have seen your honored father a standing sentry, which made me feel otherwise, at first. But when I came to consider the grand cause he was in, I found myself rejoiced to think, that men of his rank and age, were willing to turn out.' He filled many important offices in town and church, and had chd. 57 *Abraham*⁵, b. 1756, d. May 11, 1823.

57 *Abraham*⁵ Pierson (Dea.) was born in Killingworth, Ct., 1756, and died there, May 11, 1823. He was treas. of the Sch. and Ecclesiastical societies, town clerk, selectman, justice of the peace for 32 yrs. and for 24 yrs. represented his town in the genl. assembly of the state of Conn., etc: but as the "good Deacon Abraham" he was best known. Indeed, it is said of him "that he was sometimes called judge, but he was very much displeased, when any one gave him a civil title, as he considered it greatly derogatory and very disrespectful to his title, which he regarded most highly, of deacon in the church." He took an active part in the revolutionary war, and was an officer in the army. Abraham the "faithful" would fitly apply to him. He had two chd. 89 *William Seward*⁶, b. Nov. 1788, d. July 16, 1860; 90 *Lydia*⁶, b. June 19, 1785 (w. of Rev. Hosea Beckley).

89 *William Seward*⁶ Pierson (M.D.) was born in Killingworth (Clinton), Conn. Nov. 1788 and died July 16, 1860. His early days were spent at Newark, under the instruction of his father. (Jonathan Dickenson, afterwards the talented and independent preacher of Elizabethtown, studied with him, under the care of Rev. Abraham Pierson, and was his firm friend for life.) He removed with his father to Conn., and graduated at Yale coll., in 1711. In 1714, he went to Woodbridge, N. J., to preach (where probably he was introduced by his friend Dickenson), where he was ordained over the Presb. ch. April 29, 1717,— “with a salary of £80 a year and the use of the parsonage.” He continued in charge there till 1752, “when (as Dr. A. Roe says) he was dismissed at his own request, in consequence of some difference arising between him and his people. He was, however, dismissed without the least censure or imputation upon his character or conduct. He was justly esteemed and reputed a worthy and able minister of the N. Testament, sound in faith ; of exemplary conversation and candor, he well supported the dignity of his office, and had but few equals in his day in theological knowledge. It was in his time and by his influence that the congregation obtained a royal charter and was incorporated under the name of the “First Presb. Ch. of Woodbridge,” and did by their trustees take legal possession of a donation in land made them by the proprietors. “He was one of the first board of trustees of the coll. of N. J. He mar. FAMILY OF HENRY PIERSON,

WHO EMIGRATED TO THIS COUNTRY IN 1640.

1 Henry¹ Pierson is first recorded at Southampton, on the eastern end of Long Island. He was one of the first and leading settlers of that town, in 1640. As the town was settled by a colony of some 40 families from Lynn, Mass., and as he mar. Mary Cooper from Lynn, it is evident that he had come from Lynn. In the same colony, and as its pastor came also Rev. Abraham Pierson. They both lived and labored in So'ton, till 1647; and it is probable that they were brothers, or other near kinsmen, and men of the same stamp. In 1647, Rev. Abraham joined the New Haven colony, at Branford, Ct; but Henry remained at So'ton, and was the progenitor of a large family, many of whom have lived and still live in that vicinity. From 1669 to 1680 he was clerk of Suffolk co. He died in 1680 or 1681, and had children, 2 John² (whose descendants are not traced¹); 3 Daniel² (not traced); 4 Joseph²; 5 Henry², b. 1652,

“Col. Abraham Pierson was paymaster in Washington's army, the pay roll being still preserved in the family; and in the times that tried men's souls, when our fortunes and finances were at a low ebb, he paid the needy soldiers from his own private purse.”

d. 1701; 6 Benjamin², d. 1731 (went to Elizabethtown, N. Jersey, to live, and it is probable that through him the Piersons of L. I. and N. J. were mingled. His line is not traced.); 7 *Theodore*², b. before 1659; 8 Sarah², b. Jan. 20, 1660. The widow of Henry Pierson afterwards mar. Rev. Seth Fletcher, with whom she went to Elizabethtown, N. J. Her son 6 Benjamin² accompanied her.

67 *Azel*⁵ Pierson, M. D., was born in Cumberland co., N. J., July, 1767, and died 1813.¹ "Little is known of his early life. His educational advantages, however, must have been of a superior order, since he manifested in later years not only a love for, but an intimate acquaintance with the highest branches of mathematics. After having been licensed as a practitioner of medicine, he mar., and settled in Cedarville. The house in which he lived still stands, though somewhat improved, since his day. He always visited patients on horseback, was considered a good rider, and very fond of the deer and fox hunts which were fashionable at that time, and a source of much amusement. Although somewhat uncouth in his manner and rough in speech, he nevertheless enjoyed very largely the respect and confidence of his fellow citizens. As a physician, he was abrupt and determined. Like many of the old time physicians he became interested at comparatively an early age in political matters. In 1804, he was appointed clerk of the county, and transferred his residence to Bridgeton, discharged the duties of his office for eight years. He still practiced medicine, in connection with his clerkship. It is related of him, in the early part of 1813, while visiting a patient with typhus fever, he contracted the disease, and died. The patient, who was a Christian man, recovered; and the doctor, who made no profession of Christianity, died. Father Osborne was heard to remark, 'what a happy circumstance it would have been if the patient and his doctor

FAMILY OF THOMAS PIERSON, SEN.,

IN BRANFORD, CONN., BEFORE 1662.

1 *Thomas*¹ Pierson, Sen., is first recorded in America, at Branford, Conn. The Town Records of B. say, "Thos. Pierson, mar. Maria Harrison, both of Branford, Nov. 27, 1662." At B. he was closely associated with Rev. *Abraham*¹ Pierson, and in all probability they were brothers, who had together or near the same time, left old Eng. and sought a home of religious freedom in the new world. Our records of Thomas are meager. He was a weaver; and no doubt quietly tended his loom; and while the coarse home-spun steadily formed under his hand, he was ready to bear his full share of the burdens devolving upon the settlers of a new country. Unwilling to unite with the Conn. colony, for the same reason as that held by Rev. Abraham (see article under Rev. A. Pierson) of the company of "Signers, at Branford, Oct. 1776, in agreement on the part of Heads of Families, for Newark, N. J." Accordingly, that fall, he, with ^{he was one of the} the Branford people, and Rev. Abr. at their to the shore of the Pesayak (Passaic) river, where the land of the Indians (see note D.) and again established ^{to} and home. This time it was permanent. Thomas too, acre home-lot (to which each settler was entitled) on what is center of the city of Newark, N. J. He was made town. 1677, constable, 1679, and grand juryman, 1680. Thus w. Abraham led the band of emigrants in their spiritual interest, Thom. o was active in discharging official duties. He is said to have appraised the property of Rev. 1 Abraham¹ in 1678, whose will he witnessed, 1668. His own will is dated 1698, and was proved in 1701, (see note E). Inasmuch as two persons named Thos. Pierson were associated with the Rev. Abraham Pierson, at Branford and at Newark, some confusion as to their relation has existed. But Thomas Jr., who d. before 1684, was the son of Rev. Abraham; while the subject of this article, Thomas Sen., must have been a brother (some think a nephew) of Rev. Abraham. He h. chd. 2 Samuel, b. 1663, d. 1730; 3 Hannah; 4 Eliza; 5 Abigail; 6 Mary (w. of Sam. Lyon); 7 Thomas, b. 1678, d. 1758.

2 Samuel² Pierson, born at Branford, Ct., 1663, when 3 years old was brought to Newark, N. J., by his parents. He mar. Mary Harrison (dau. of his uncle Serg. He mar. Phebe Nutman (dau. of Isaac Nutman, of Elizabeth), b. 1742, d. 1826, who is specially remembered by her family and others for her earnest piety and ability.

She reared a large family of eight children, and was subjected to many trials during the revolutionary war. Dr. Matthias was a man of great earnestness and integrity. "His early education was limited by the moderate opportunities of that early period. He studied medicine and practiced in his native town, during the whole of his life. He was the first and for many years the only physician at the mountain; his colleague in later years, Dr. Jno. Condit, being twenty-one years his junior. His district of practice embraced the region now occupied by the Oranges, Bloomfield and Caldwell, and to the border of Morris co., which, during the most of his life, he traversed on horseback. He identified himself with the interests of his native town. He was one of the corporators named in the first charter, in 1783, and two years later, when the Orange academy was founded, he gave it his active support. Under his and others fostering care, it became and long continued to be a leading school of instruction in Essex co. During the revolutionary war, he was a decided friend of his country, and was influential in inspiring others with his own patriotic sentiments."¹ While the British forces were in Orange, they, at one time, took possession of his house (while the family had fled for temporary safety to the mountain), which with all its contents they freely used, leaving only the doctor's closet of medicines, and a fresh baking of bread unmolested. Possibly they thought the bread, though so tempting in ap-

7 *Thomas*² Pierson, was born in Newark, in 1678 (some say in 1660), and d. in Orange, Mar. 5, 1758, and was buried in the old graveyard there. He went from Newark to Whatnong plains (now Morris plains) where he bought a tract of land and settled on it, about 1685. He commenced running a saw-mill at that place, which, with the original spot of land, has remained in the family ever since. (The place is now occupied by John Henry Pierson, who is my informant.) This Thomas has been with difficulty located, because the records concerning him are meager; in all probability, however, he belongs here. He had chd. 16 Timothy, b. 1710, d. 1777; 17 Silas.

16 Timothy ³ Pierson, was born 1710 (probably at Whatnong Pl.), married Mary — (who d. 1788), and died 1777. They were both buried at Morristown. (Mr. Congar says: "In 1752, he sold land in Newark, formerly of Thomas, he was probably a grandson of Thos.") His will names his chd. 48 Thomas; 49 Samuel, b. 1748, d. 1789-90; 50 Phebe; 51 Keziah; 52 Experience, d. 1793.

49 Samuel ⁴ Pierson was born 1748 (probably at Whatnong Pl.), and lived on the old place owned by father and grand-father; died 1789 or 90, and was buried at Morristown. He had chd. 97 Timothy, b. 1772, d. 1851; 98 Stephen, b. 1777; 99 Joseph; 100 Ebenezer; 101 Samuel, b. 1785; 102 Isaac; 103 Silas.

97 Timothy ⁵ Pierson, was born 1772, and died 1851. His home was on the old place at Whatnong plains. He had chd. 228 John Henry, b. 1822; and ten others.

228 John Henry ⁶ Pierson, was born 1822 at Morris plains, where he has spent his life, and still keeps the saw mill running. He had children 461 James H.; 462 Henry W.; 463 Edward H.; 464 John H.

101 Samuel ⁵ Pierson, was born 1785, and had ch. 235 Lewis Jr., b. 1822 (who is a manufacturer of carriages in Morristown. He has a son 470 Lemuel E.

102 Isaac ⁵ Pierson, had chd. 236 Abiram of Ohio.

103 Silas ⁵ Pierson, had chd. 237 Charles.

FAMILY OF STEPHEN PIERSON,

IN DERBY CONN., IN 1666.

1 *Stephen*¹ Pierson, came to Watertown, Mass., in 1644 (though it is not known from whence, or who was his father). He mar. 1st Mary Tomlinson, dau. of Henry Tomlinson, of Stratford. He removed to Milford, Ct., in 1652, and was in Stratford, Ct., in 1665, and came to Derby, Ct., about 1666. "Before the charter of Conn., 1662, Milford and Derby were under the jurisdiction of N. Haven. The early records of Milford were revised between 1675 and 1690, and the original records of the town court proceedings are lost. And the first mention of any Stephen Pierson in that vicinity was in 1657, when he witnessed a will, in the court of N. Haven." In the Town Records of Derby it is recorded that "Stephen Pierson had some transactions, May 13, 1679, also that Stephen Pierson died in Derby May 14, 1739." If these dates are correct, and apply to the same person, he must have come to Watertown at a very early age, or have lived to the age of 100 yrs. or more. His will is dated Sept. 2, 1733, and shows that he left a 2d wife, by name Esther, though the 1st wife Mary, was the mother of his children. In a list of the settlers of Pangasset (now Derby), Mar. 15, 1667, is found the name of Stephen Pierson. And four successive generations of this family are known to have lived on Meeting-house hill, in Derby. The historian of Derby, Dr. Beardsley, says that "all the Piersons of Derby are descendants of Stephen." As to who this said Stephen is, I have no means of determining; so will state the opinions of others, and leave it for some future genealogist to decide. Dr. Ambrose Beardsley, historian of Derby, speaks of "Stephen P., as the son of Rev. Abraham P. of Branford, who came to Pangasset in 1666, and resided there before the town was incorporated, 1675." Rev. W. B. Lewis, now dec., who many years ago taught school in Derby, and looked up its history, confirms his statements. Judge Savage considers him to have been the son of Rev. Abraham. These and some others are of the opinion that he was son of Rev. Abraham, even though his name is not mentioned by Abraham in his will. (Refer to the will of Rev. Abr. Pierson.) It seems however probable that if he were such, some provision would have made for him by his father. The supposition of his relation to Abraham P., may have arisen from the fact that he was in eastern Mass., about the same time with Abraham, and also in Conn., near Branford, at the same time with him. Whatever his origin may have been, he had, by wife Mary, chd. 2 Stephen, d. 1754; 3 Abraham; 4 Sarah (w. of — Twichell); 5 Bathsheba (w. of Adam Blackman, of Stratford in 1710); 6 John (probably he was the same John Pierson who is recorded as living in Derby in 1698, and removed to Norwalk, as one is known to have lived there, and nothing more is heard of John in Derby), his estate is said to have been settled by his father in 1704; 7 Thomas (probably); 8 Mary (w. of — Baldwin); 9 Daniel (probably the Daniel Pierson who "drew lots in Oxford, a part of Derby, in 1713"); and perhaps others.

2 *Stephen*² Pierson, Jr., mar. 1st Mehetabel Canfield, of Derby, Oct. 12, 1697, by whom he had six children. In 1738, June 15, he mar. 2d Hannah Munson (dau. of John Munson, of Derby), by whom he had five children. His will is dated Feb. 2, 1753, and mentions both wives and all the chd. He died in Derby, in 1754. His widow married Mr. Elijah Davis, and died in Alford, Mass., 1815, leaving a family of Davis children. Apr. 13, 1724, he deeded to his son Thomas, 80 acres of land in Derby. He had children 10 Elizabeth (w. of — Bennett), b. Jan'y 12, 1699; 11 Abigail (w. of — St. John); 12 Thomas; 13 Job, b. Oct. 5, 1707; 14 Jonathan, b. May 6, 1716, d. in Ridgefield, N. Y.; 15 Phebe; 16 Enoch, b. June 18, 1739, d. Oct. 1, 1827; 17 Elijah, b. Dec. 26, 1740, d. in Derby (and never married); 18 Rachel, b. Sept. 16, 1742, d. in Colebrook, Ct. June 26, 1815 (w. of Henry Clinton, and mother of 5 chd.); 19 Daniel, b. April 29, 1744, mar. and removed to the West, and nothing is known of his descendants; 20 Eli, b. 1750.

12 *Thomas*³ Pierson, son of Stephen Jr., was born in Derby, but nothing further is known of him unless he is the Thomas Jr. who mar. Ruth Holbrook, and lived in Derby and Norwalk. The query arises why was he called Jr. if the son of *Stephen*² and some suppose that the said Thos. Jr. must have been son of 7 Thomas.² All authorities agree, however, that he must have been the grandson of 1 *Stephen*¹ Pierson. As some of Thos. Jr.'s descendants think that he was the son of Stephen Jr., we will place his record here; without positively asserting that he was the son of Stephen Jr.

*Thomas*³ Pierson Jr. mar. Ruth Holbrook, in Norwalk, Ct., Feb. 22, 1727. He is known to have lived in Norwalk, and to have purchased land in Derby in 1758. He died in 1772 and his two sons divided his property in 1773. He had children 30 Nathan (known as ensign); 31 Timothy (his family and descendants wrote their name Parsons. Mr. Timothy Parsons, of Georgetown, Ct., is one of them. Beyond this, I have no record of them).

30 *Nathan*⁴ Pierson, was known as ensign, and mar. Amy Smith, Nov. 17, 1756, and had chd. 69 David; 70 Thomas; 71 Abel; 72 Nathan; 73 Ruth; 74 Rebecca; 75 Hannah.

71 *Abel*⁵ Pierson, Capt., mar. Hannah Fairchild, and had children 123 Abel; 124 Nathan; 125 Sheldon; 126 Abiel removed to Ohio; 127 Hannah (w. of Wm. Matthews, of Ohio), died in 1875 ag. 81 years; 128 Sophia (w. of — Withers, of N. Haven).

123 *Abel*⁶ Pierson removed to Newark, N. J.; and had chd. 195 Lyman (never mar.); 196 Abel (never mar.); 197 Nois (never mar.); 198 Harriet (w. of — Richards, of Newark); 199 Mary.

124 *Nathan*⁶ Pierson was of Derby and removed to Brooklyn, N. Y., and had ch. 200 Edward (of Brooklyn).

125 *Sheldon*⁶ Pierson, was of Derby, where he made his residence, and had chd. 201 John S. (dec. who resided in Brooklyn, at the time of his death, and was the last of the Piersons to leave Derby, Conn.); 202 Abel; 203 Edward; 204 William R. (now of Nichols farm, Bridgeport, Ct.); 205 Sheldon; 106 Abigail; 207 Martha B.; 208 Mary Ann.

14 *Jonathan*³ Pierson was born May 6, 1716, in Derby, mar. Mary Bates, May 8, 1739, and died in Ridgefield, Sullivan co., N. Y. His wife died Feb. 16, 1755. He had chd. 32 Martha, b. Jan'y 12, 1740; 33 Elias, b. in Derby, June 23, 1743; 34 Osborn, died in Ohio; 35 David, died in Sharon, Ct.; 36 Bartholemew, died in Penn.; 37 Jonathan, b. 1751, died in Reading, Ct., Sept. 7, 1818; 38 Martha, b. Mar. 4, 1753.

37 *Jonathan*⁴ Pierson, born in Derby, 1751, died in Reading, Ct., Sept. 7, 1818; mar. Eliz. Thomas, and had chd. 76 Elias (Parsons), b. 1780, d. 1851; 77 Samuel, b. 1785, d. 1851; 78 Noah (Parsons); 79 Sarah (Parsons) wife of T. Osborne, of Norwalk, and has 2 chd.; 80 Phebe, wife of A. Rockwell and now lives in Marcellus, N. Y.

10 *Samuel*³ Pearson, born in Penn. ; h. chd. 18 James R. (of New Castle, Penn.) ; 19 David W. (of same place).

In Smith's History of Delaware Co., Penn., I find the following notes, from which it is probable that the above 1 *Jonathan*¹ Pearson is in direct descent from the following Thomas : 1 *Thomas*¹ Pearson, (or Pearce, on Holmes's Diagram of Del. co., 1688), came from Cheshire, Eng., 1682, with William Penn, and settled Mapel township, Penn. He mar. Margery ——. On landing at old Uptown, Penn turned to his friend Pearson, and asked him to name the place ; accordingly he named it Chester. He was the maternal grand-father of Benj. West, the artist. Some of his descendants spell the name Parsons, some Person, and some Pierson. He h. chd. 2 Robert ; 3 Thomas ; 4 Lawrence ; 5 Enoch ; 6 John ; 7 Alice ; 8 Sarah ; 9 Benjamin (all born in Penn.).

1 *Thomas*¹ Pearson, had brothers 1 *John*¹ Persons, who was an early settler of Newtown township, Penn., and died 1709, leaving no family. He came from Cheshire, Eng., also, and 2 *Edward*¹ Pierson who came in 1687 to Darby, Penn.; from Cheshire, Eng., was a mason by trade; and a member of the society of Friends, but not very strict. He h. chd. Lawrence, and perhaps Thomas and Abel.

Also, in Smith's Hist. of Delaware Co., Penn., we find the following note: "1 *Benjamin*¹ Pearson, born 1682, died 1763; mar. W. S. Burbeck; came from Rotherham, Yorkshire, Eng., in 1712; settled in Darby, Penn. They were in membership with the Friends at time of arrival. He was better educated than most of the emigrants of that age; but as he felt little interest in the new country, he never made exertion to acquire property in it. He h. chd. 2 Benjamin (b. in Eng.); 3 Thomas (b. in Eng.); 4 John (b. in Am.); 5 Joseph (b. in Am.); 6 Samuel (b. in Am.); 6 Joshua (b. in Am.); 8 Isaac (b. in Eng.).

3 *Thomas*² Pearson, born in Eng.; settled in Darby; mar. H. Blumston, and h. chd. 9 John (who begat 10 Benjamin, who begat 11 Horace Pearson, of Philadelphia).

4 *John*² Pearson, born in Penn.; mar. A. Bevan, and became the ancestor of all the Darby family."

1 *Thomas*¹ Pearson, was born at Rich Hill, Armagh co., Ireland, where among the Quakers, his father and grandfather lived, having emigrated from Eng. to that place. When fifteen years old he came with his father (whose name was Thomas also) to New Castle, Del. (so given, but is probably Penn.). He was a minister in the society of Friends, and died at the age of seventy-nine yrs. in Delaware co., Penn. He had brothers 2 William (d. young); 3 Francis, b. 1795, d. 1875 (who h. chd. Thomas now of Indiana, and James, now of York co.); and sisters 4 Jane; 5 Elizabeth (mar. Mr. Marcellus, and lives in Zanesville, Ohio). He h. chd. 6 Robert, b. 1803 (who has chd. 16 Robert; 17 Albert; 18 Jacob, all in Phila.); 7 Thomas, b. 1805 (who has chd. 19 Thomas C.; 20 Francis; 21 Henry Clay; all born in Del. co., Penn.); 8 Sallie, b. 1807; 9 Elizabeth, b. 1810; 10 Rachel, b. 1813; 11 Jacob, b. 1815, of Phila. (who h. chd. in Phila., 22 William; 23 Jacob L.; 24 Thomas); 12 Francis C., b. 1817 (who h. chd. 25 Simpson, b. 1842; 26 Thomas, b. 1844, now a Methodist minister in Phila.); 27 Francis Alpheus, b. 1847; 28 Jane; 29 Amelia E.; 30 John S. now a physician in Phila., and acts as missionary among the poor in the Phila. hospitals); 13 Jane, b. 1819; 14 Marsh, b. 1822 (who h. chd. 31 Edward; 32 John, of Phila.); 15 Abigail, b. 1825.

The following are of the Long Island family of Pierson, but I am unable to find the connection.

63. The vicar of Newark-upon-Trent writes, "that no particulars of Rev. Abraham P., are to be found. The church registers there have a long break in them after the year 1630. In 1666, Richard Pierson, was vicar of Newark. About that time, many of the Piersons were Puritans, and settled in Cambridge." They suffered much because of their Puritan views of religion, and some are thought to have sought refuge from persecution, in Holland. It may be that our first ancestors in America sailed from Holland to America, and therefore we can find no record of their sailing. Or, they may have first returned to England and then sailed from her shores, without leaving their names enrolled, with a note of the ship on which they sailed. When Abraham P. came to America, in 1639, it was nearly 20 years since the first pilgrims had left England, and ships were frequently setting sail for the new world, many of them without a permit, and without leaving a record of their ship or passengers. Undoubtedly, our American families came from the Yorkshire and Cambridge branch. (Refer to English notes, 52 to 58.) Persevering effort has been made there (the past year) to discover the birth place and residence of the Piersons who first came to the new world. Town and village registers and wills have been examined; 1002 postals of enquiry, and offering a reward for the record of Abraham Pierson's baptism, have been sent throughout Yorkshire and Notts. Replies have come back saying that in some of the parishes the registers are lost, others do not go so far back as 1630, and others are so obliterated by age that they cannot be read. Thus far, I only find of Rev. Abraham P., in England, that "he was born in Yorkshire, 1613, and that he matriculated at Cambridge, 1632." Probably, after his graduation at Cambridge, he was a "Non-conformist," and as he had no dealings with the established church of England, his name does not appear upon their Church Records.

A. The tradition in America is that "he was ordained in Newark, Eng." But search has been made in Newark (on the Trent), and no records can be found there concerning him.

A COPY OF THE WILL OF REV. ABRAHAM PIERSON SEN., DATED AUG. 10, 1671.

Newark, N. J.

"If God takes me away by this sickness or until I have made a more formal will, of a future date, then I do make and constitute this my last will and testament, being firmly persuaded of the everlasting welfare of my soul's estate my and body's resurrection to eternal life by Jesus Christ, my dear and precious Redeemer.

Imprimis. I will that all my debts be duly and truly paid as they are expressed and recorded in my broad book for reckoning, which I brought from Brandford, being carefully understood because of imperfections of the writing, or whatever else shall appear due to any though not there recorded.

2dly That my wife shall have the thirds of my whole estate, to whose love and faithfulness I commit the bringing up of my children, and do appoint her my sole executrix, and give her my great Bible and what other English books she pleaseth to choose.

3dly. For my choice and precious daughter Davenport I will that her hundred pound be made good, which I promised her upon her marriage, always provided that if upon just account of mine estate and debts, my other daughters have above an hundred pounds a piece, then she shall be advanced as much as any.

4th. For my son Abraham, I do will that besides what he has had, or any horse kind he hath that he shall have all my books (except what by particulars I give to any) together with the frame belonging to the books; upon which consideration I will that he sh. pay back again to the estate eight pounds in part of the portion of my daughter Mary, upon her marriage day, or two mos. after. For my next three sons, Thomas, Theophilus and Isaac, I will that they sh. have my whole accommodation of lands layed out or to be layed out within the limits of this plantation, always provided that my wife's thirds shall be at her sole disposal, during the continuance of her natural life. For my son Thomas, I do not bring in on his account either the home lot which the town gvaee him, or any horse kind which in former times I gave him. I will that he have a sufficient house lot upon his home lot in part of portion, and do give him Dr. Hall his paraphrase upon the Bible as a token of my love. For my two youngest sons, I would have them in due time to have each of them half of the homestead. Finally, all my just debts paid and my wife's thirds kept entire, I would have the whole of my remaining estate to be divided as portions to the rest of my children to wit: my three sons and four daughters according to equal valuations and proportions, the same to be payable on the day of their respective marriages, or one month after: but if they be not married, then, the male children — their portions sh. be payable when they are of the age of twenty.

Furthermore, I would have my two lesser boys, to be taught to read the Eng. tongue and to write a legible hand, and all my chd. that be at home with me to have each of them a new Eng. Bible and a good Eng. book, out of the library, such as they by the advice of their mother sh. choose. Likewise, I do request and hereby ordain my trusty and well beloved brethren and friends, Mr. Jasper Crane, Mr. Rob. Treat, Lieut. Swaine, Brother Tompkins, Bro. Lawrence and Bro. Sergeant Ward, to become supervisors of this my last will and testament, to be helpful unto my wife, and to see that this my last will be faithfully executed, and when any one of these sh. die or depart the place, the rest sh. with my wife's consent appoint some faithful man to fill up the empty place. In witness whereunto I have set my hand, the day and year first above written.

ABRAHAM PIERSON.

Witness, Thomas Pierson,

The above Thos. Pierson doth make oath th. this is the last will and testament of the deceased Abr. Pierson, and th. he knows of none other. Sworn before me, the 12th of Mar. 1678. A true copy.

B. Rev. Abraham P., left So'ton, L. I., in 1647, and went to Branford, Conn., it having become necessary to divide the church, and his removal being approved by a council.

C. In 1668, the people of Newark, N. J., at a town meeting, voted to allow Mr. Pierson the expense of his removal from Branford, and digging his well, and also stipulating to allow him a salary of £80 a year, payable half yearly, in produce at the current price; and also to give him a lb. of butter for every milch cow in the town; and voted that he should be exempted from the taxes, while he continued their minister.

Killingworth (now Clinton, Ct.), is properly Kennilworth. (Lambert's N. H. and Ct. Colonies.)

D. When the colony from Branford, Ct., in 1666, removed to the Pesayak river, they purchased land for their new settlement there, of the Indians (through the Proprietors), for which they paid the following price: "50 double heads of powder, 100 bars of lead, 20 coats, 20 pistols, 10 kettles, 10 swords, 4 blankets, 4 barrels of beer, 10 pair of breeches, 50 knives, 20 hoes, 850 fathom of wampum, 20 ankers of liquors, or something equivalent, and 3 troopers' coats." This fully satisfied the Indians for the land as far as the "foot of the great Mountain Watchung."

E. 1 Thomas¹ Pierson is called "Thomas sen.," to distinguish him from "Thomas the son of Rev. Abraham." Both Thomases had home-lots set off to them in Newark, N. J., and both are mentioned in various official positions, up to 1688; therefore some confusion concerning them has arisen.

1 Thomas¹ sen. is said to have "sworn allegiance to the Dutch, in 1673."

1 Thomas¹ sen. is said, by one party, to have been "the son of Henry Pierson, of Southampton;" but Henry makes no mention of any son Thomas and it is not probable that he had such a son; he is more likely to have been the brother of Henry, and of Rev. Abraham, and to have come to America at or near the same time with them.

F. Capt. Josiah Pierson, born 1726 died 1780, names in his will "Hannah Dey, and Eliz. Bond" as his children.

G. A List of "Free males" in Southampton, L. I., 1698, mentions,

Ensign Joseph	Pierson,	John	Peirson
Henry	"	David	"
Ephraim	"	Abraham	"
Left't Col. Henry	"	Josiah	"
Samuel	"	Theoder	"

and Theophilus Person.

And a list of "Free Females" mentions:

Mary	Peirson,	Frances Peirson,
Hannah	"	Ann
Sarah	"	Mrs. Sarah Pierson.

H. Southampton, L. I., was thus established: "The government of the town was vested in the people. They assembled at their town meeting; had all power and all authority. They elected town officers, constituted courts, allotted lands, made laws, tried difficult and important cases, and from their decision there was no appeal. Town meeting, or general court, met once a month. Every freeholder was required to be present at the meeting, and take a part in the burdens of government. All delinquents were fined for non-attendance at each meeting."—Howell's Hist. of Southampton.

I. 2 Pres. Abraham² Pierson instituted at Yale college, a "System of Natural Philosophy," which the students of Yale continued to use, many years. Pres. Abraham received from his father 1 Rev. Abraham¹, his Library, which was composed of 440 volumes, very valuable for those early colonial days. The most of these he bequeathed to the Library of Yale college.

K. "Thomas³ Pierson was one of the first settlers of Derby, then called Pangassett. He purchased lands from O'Kennuch, the chief of the Sagamore Indians, a portion of which is still held by the Pierson family, and has been for over 200 yrs. Thomas Pierson held a commission from King George, which document is still preserved."

CONTRIBUTIONS TO THE RECORD OF THE PIERSONS, BY JOHN S. PIERSON, OF NEW YORK.

FAMILY OF JAMES PEIRSON.

1 James¹ Peirson, was sent out to the colonies, about 1715, when he was 16 years old. His first memories were of living in a fine house, in luxury, with his father an old man, and his mother much younger, there being one or two sisters, much older than himself (but no brothers), then of the death of both father and mother, and his being placed by his friends in a farm house in Wales for his health. Thence, after some time, he was taken by an uncle or brother-in-law, and put on board a ship bound to America, in order to inherit the property belonging to the lad. On his arrival in America James was either sold or apprenticed (in New Jersey), till he should become of age, to pay for his passage over. He worked his way along through great difficulties, having before him the purpose of returning to England and Wales, to claim his rights, as soon as able. But he married a wife, and settled down, first in or near Newark, and afterwards at Hanover, New Jersey, and then decided to wait till his son Moses was old enough to go for him, which he never did. His wife's name was Esther Williams. His will is dated Hanover, N. J., Sept. 3, 1761, and provides for his wife and four daughters, and gives all the rest of his property to his son Moses. In that document, his own and his wife's name, is spelt Peirson; though the signature seems to be Pirson. He had children:

(2) 1. Moses, b. in Newark, N. J., Oct. 17, 1733.

2. Ruth. She married Nathaniel Tichenor and had children, Hannah, Esther, Aaron.

3. Hannah; married — Baldwin.

4. Martha; married — Bowers.

5. Esther; married.

(2) Moses² Peirson (James¹) (so he always spelled his name), lived at Parsippany, N. J., certainly from 1755 to 1763, and probably till 1770; m. Rachel Smith, March 27, 1754. She was b. Oct. 13, 1735, and d. March 22, 1813. Being obliged to sell his property in N. J., in order to pay off the indebtedness of his father, incurred for the benefit of a son-in-law, he bought 1000 acres (or more) of wilderness land in Shelburn, Vt., and moved upon it with his family in 1770. At one time, four sons, and three daughters were settled upon portions of this tract.

During the revolutionary war, he was forced to leave his home in Shelburn, as it was on the frontier and much exposed to the depredations of tories and Indians. After a battle at his own door, he removed to Shoreham, and then to Rutland. His sons Ziba and Uzal (æ. 17 and 15) were taken by the Indians and carried to

Montreal. They escaped and returned to thier parents, after wandering in the woods forty days, with only such food as they could find there.¹

After the war, Moses Peirson returned to Shelburn and d. there Feb. 28, 1805. He had chd. (all born at Parsippany, N. J., except the last two, who were born at Shelburn).

1 James, b. Oct. 3, 1755, d. Dec. 14, 1775, at Shelburn, Vt.

2 Sarah, b. Oct. 12, 1757; m. Isaac Van Arnum and d. in Ohio. Their chd. were Miles, George F. (born in Quebec, 1779), Rachel, Ethan Allen and Heman; with the exception noted, all born in Shelburn, Vt.

3 Zillah, b. July 5, 1759; d. at Hector, N. Y. She mar. Jared Post. Their chd. (all born at Shelburn, Vt.), were: James, Hiram (both drowned, aged 10 and 12, with their father in Lake Champlain, about 1796); Henry, who moved to Ohio; Polly, m. — Dee, and lived and d. in Georgia, Vt.; Sally, m. — Tyler; Laura, b. 1792, d. April 15, 1814; and Sophia, d. March 7, 1814, aged 19.

A BIT OF LOCAL CENTENNIAL HISTORY.

The author of the following interesting bit of traditionary history was the late Mrs. Rhoda Pierston Foot. Mrs. Foot was the youngest daughter of Moses Peirson, and was the aunt of Mrs. L. M. Hagar, of this city, who still retains the manuscript, and to whom we are indebted for a copy for printing. It was written in 1860.

History of a family in Vermont from the memory of the youngest child (now eighty-three years old), which was told her by her parents and elder brothers and sisters, when a child; which is a true history.

Before the revolutionary war, a man whose name was Moses Peirson, settled in Vermont on the border of Lake Champlain. The name of Shelburn was given to the town where he lived; his family consisted of a wife and several children. He purchased (1,000) one thousand acres of land for himself and family before his removal from New Jersey. A block house of hewn logs and a log barn made them very comfortable in the wilderness. About six years they lived there in peace and quietude; but one affliction gave them sorrow. That was the death of their eldest son with consumption.

When Independence was declared by a few states uniting together, it aroused King George of Great Britain, and he immediately proclaimed war against them. Then frontier troubles began. Canada was in the king's dominions and their scouts were sent out like bees from a hive to invade the suburbs of the new territory. There were but few families in the same town with Mr. Peirson, and it was the nearest settled place to the Canada line. One of his neighbors was a Mr. Fyler, from Connecticut. He turned tory, left his family, and fled to Canada and his house became a tory rendezvous. Vermont was very thinly

m. Amanda Allen. She married second, Isaac Newton Russell, also of Shelburn; their children being Ellis McArby, b. July 14, 1806, who m. in Charlotte, Vt., Sept. 29, 1830, Cornelia Curtis, had six children and d. in Chicago, Sept. 25, 1866: and William Pierson, b. at Shelburn, Jan. 6, 1810, who m. Sept. 9, 1834, Lydia Bass, at Middlebury, Vt., and d. there Jan. 4, 1872.

Dr. William Pierson Russell, was distinguished as a physician; was surgeon of the 5th Vermont regiment, and during the terrible Chicahominy campaign under Gen. McClellan, contracted a miasmatic disease from which he finally died. He was also prominent as a Mason and Odd Fellow. He had five children, and many grandchildren.

10 Rhoda, b. May 27, 1777; mar. Uric Foot of Shelburn, Vt. They had chd., Roxy, who mar. — Cook; had chd. Horace (married) and Henrietta, both living at Auburn, N. Y.; and William, who resides at Buffalo, N. Y.

(3) Ziba³ Pierson,¹ (Moses² James¹) b. May 9, 1761, at Parsippany, N. J.; removed in 1770 with his father to Shelburn, Vt., was taken prisoner by the Indians (see details in Note²) and finally came into possession of the old homestead there. He mar. May 24, 1787, Hannah Campbell of Voluntown, Windham co., Conn. (who was b. Jan. 24, 1766, and d. Aug. 7, 1847, in Shelburn) and settled in 1776 when war commenced. There were some alarms, but nothing serious till the fall of '77 when they had fears of being disturbed. A small company of men were sent to Mr. Peirson's relief under the charge of Lieutenant Barnum. There being no trouble, a part of the company left in February '78; only fifteen remained with the family. On the first of March the guard heard the enemy coming and being alarmed, forgot to fire his gun, ran in and cried: "They are coming, they are coming." The men sprang to their feet and caught their guns; at that instant the house was fired on. The men had to get their chance of firing from the small windows. Lieut. Barnum gave orders till a bullet struck him in the breast. He fell across a kettle and his blood ran into it; he died there. The tories set the house on fire with port-fire; which was discovered and put out with beer.

Capt. Sawyer took command, and the firing was too hard for the tories. They skulked behind the house, when one peeped out, he was shot at from the house. The battle commenced an hour before day, and lasted till the sun was an hour high. The tories then crept off as they could on the ice. Three of the whigs were killed and some others wounded. Six tories were found dead (one of them a great stout Indian) and in crossing the ice they were seen to cut a hole in the ice and put in some that died. Lieut. Barnum and the other two that were killed were put in coffins. A hole was dug and the enemy were all piled in together. The Indian was thrown in first with his face downward, an old Dutchman calling out "dig your way down to hell." Six tories were taken prisoners. They cried for quarter behind the barn, and were told to come forward if they wanted quarter.

During the battle Mrs. Peirson was in the bed with her youngest daughter, ten months old. Three other girls were lying in another bed beside hers, and were not hurt. As soon as the enemy had left, Mrs. Peirson got up, leaving the child in bed. When she went to her, she found her covered with blood but not hurt. Mr. Peirson got out of bed, reached up to the beam for his rifle and a bullet went through his shirt and left two holes in it. None of the family were hurt.

¹ The change in spelling took place in the third generation; some branches writing Pierson, and others adhering to the old orthography Peirson; where the spelling is not known we have printed it Pierson.

After breakfast they gathered up their things and started on the ice for Shoreham with their horse-teams. The cattle were driven by land through the woods. There the family made a stop, took a farm and staid till next fall.

About this time some scouts from Canada came out and burnt Mr. Peirson's house and barn and all the other buildings. They next went to Vergennes, where they found a few people whom they took prisoners. After having burned all the log-houses, they started for Quebec. Among the prisoners were Mr. Peirson's eldest daughter Mrs. Sarah Van Arnum, her husband and a child a year old, named Miles. They had compassion enough for the prisoners to let them ride on the horses they had taken, and on the way gave back to Mrs. Van Arnum her child's clothing. They were all kept in prison at Quebec till the war was over, when they were exchanged. The next spring she had another son born who was christened by the priest, George Frederick, and named for King George. The same fall these were taken, another party went on to Shoreham burning on the way all the houses they could find. They burned several in Cornwall. Only two escaped; they were near a large swamp, and were unnoticed.

When Mr. Peirson's family left Shoreham they went to Rutland and remained there and in Clarendon till peace was declared, but had left their cattle and hogs and two oldest boys, Ziba and Uzal, to kill their meat and try their lard, which they had done and were all ready to start on the next morning. Before day this squad came, fired on the house, which frightened the cattle and they all fled to the woods, but were afterwards found. The two boys and a Mr. More, on whose farm they had lived, were made prisoners with others they found in the town, and taken to St. Johns. They set fire to the house and burnt up the meat and lard. After they arrived at St. Johns, Ziba was handcuffed and kept in the prison, he being nearly eighteen years old. Uzal was in his sixteenth year and small of his age. He was allowed to go out. He kept a good look-out till he found a place where they could make their escape. After a few days Ziba's handcuffs were taken off, and he had liberty within the fort. When captured a pocket compass was found on him which the captain took from him. A day or two before his escape, the captain started on another scout and came and shook hands with him, leaving the compass in Ziba's hands. As soon as they could leave in safety, they crept out while the sentinel slept and went to an old house occupied as a church; where they remained till the next night, then started on their journey through woods and sometimes through clearings, sleeping in barns when they could find them, otherwise staying in the woods. It was March, 1779.

They had been two days without provisions. They came to a French house. As they entered the door, they saw a man cutting bread with a large knife. He laid it down. The boys snatched each a slice and the knife and ran to the woods. By the help of the compass they went on. Somewhere they found a hatchet. As they traveled through the poor French settlement, some of them were kind and would give them food. A few days after leaving the fort they were afraid they should be captured and staid a week in a barn concealed in the hay, creeping out at night to seek food which they seldom found. They became so faint and hungry that they struck an ox on the head with the hatchet, then cut his throat and skinned the thighs, and took the skin to wrap up their feet, and ate some of the meat.

At one place they saw men getting out a raft of timber. They slyly crept to the house, where they found an old man drunk and asleep on the floor. Several knapsacks were hanging up filled with bread. They each took one and a camp kettle of meat and beans and a gun and ammunition and a bottle of rum, then took to the woods again, and fared well till it was gone. Afterwards they had to live on such wild game as they could shoot, killing even martens and eating them. The snow began to melt the first of April, and they had to walk through snow and water. Winter ended and spring advancing, they came to Lake Champlain. They made a raft of flood-wood, tied together with peeled bark and crossed to land, let their raft go and soon found they were on an island, which they afterwards supposed to be Isle of Mott. They made a new raft, and left the island. Their feet became sore, and their ox-hide moccasins, tied on their feet with pieces of bark, were nearly worn out.

He was an enthusiastic, somewhat visionary man ; always hoping to go to England to recover the fortune fraudulently taken from his grandfather Moses Peirson. He was also a chemist, and engaged in experiments for making gold out of the baser metals. When living in New York state, his neighbors thought him a conjurer and burned his laboratory. About 1810 the family moved to near Vevay, Indiana.

They could walk but slowly, and it was May before they arrived at their father's farm in Shelburn ; but there they found no friends and nothing to eat but birds which they killed, cooked and eat, without any seasoning. They staid here several days, lying at night in the woods till they felt recruited, then went on to Rutland where they found their family and friends.

Imagine their appearance when they arrived. They had been forty days on their journey without a change of garments. They were ragged and filthy and almost famished with hunger. The news of their arrival spread rapidly. One man took his horse and rode from house to house to proclaim the news. Men, women and children flocked in to see them and many were the tears of joy shed by their friends at seeing them again, for they had imagined that they were killed by the Indians.

When the war was over, Mr. Peirson returned with his family to the place in Shelburn that he had left (afterwards occupied by Judge Meech)."

The editor adds :

"The accounts of the fight at Moses Peirson's house, March 12, 1778, known of old by the rather sounding title of 'The Battle of Shelburn,' given by Lyman Thayer and Rev. G. F. Sutton, in Miss Hemenway's Gazetteer, mentioned the number of the attacking party as 57 ; some being Indians, and some supposed to be Tories or British soldiers disguised as Indians. Mr. Thayer says that a British officer, taken captive and brought to Burlington in the war of 1812, told Ziba Peirson that his (the officer's) father, named Larama, was killed in the revolutionary war, in the British service, at Peirson's, in Shelburn. It is also related that the British authorities, exasperated by the repulse of their party, offered a large reward for the body of 'the notorious rebel Moses Peirson,' dead or alive. An order of the Vermont Council of Safety, directed to Captains Ebenezer Allen and Isaac Clark, is extant, which alludes to the affair as 'Capt. Sawyer's late signal victory over the enemy at Shelburn,' orders them to go to his relief, to secure the wheat at Shelburn, and to remove all the inhabitants they could not protect, within their lines on Otter creek. The removal of Moses Peirson and his family to Orwell was probably in consequence of this order."

May, 1826, Maria Holabird, who was b. at Shelburn, Vt., 1804, and d. at New Milford, Ill., May, 1869. He lost his property in Vermont, and went in 1842, to Milwaukee, to Winnebago co., Ill., and finally to California, and other points in the far west. The circumstances of his death were peculiar. He was, at the time, at the ranch of a friend named Rice, near Denver; who, with his men, was making hay, at a distance from the house. The strange actions of his dog, led Mr. Rice to suspect that something was wrong at the house. He left the field to investigate, and subsequently, the parties found the house burnt, and the bones of Mr. Rice and Mr. Pierson among the ruins. From the finding of bows and arrows near by, the murders were attributed at first to the Kiawa Indians; but investigation fixed the crime upon the band of cattle thieves who infested the region, and who had purposely placed the bows and arrows, to mislead. Their children were :

1 Irvin H., b. Feb. 11, 1825 (with the succeeding five children) at Shelburn, Vt. He d. Jan., 1828.

¹ Shortly after his first child was born he removed to Manchester, Vt., and became a trader in general merchandise of farm produce. In the fall of 1787 he took a drove of hogs to Boston, and finding the prices low, chartered a vessel for Halifax and put his live stock on board intending an absence of a few weeks only. The vessel was driven by adverse winds out of her course and was captured by a Spanish privateer, the cargo confiscated by these freebooters, and the unhappy crew, together with Pearson, sold into slavery in a foreign clime. His loving wife waited patiently seven years for her husband's return, when, convinced of his death, she married again. Two years later her husband secured his release by the intervention of the U. S. authorities, and was landed at Savannah early in 1797. He immediately wrote to his brother at Avon, Livingston co., N. Y., concerning his wife and little ones, and being informed of the exact state of things, he concluded to remain in Savannah, Ga. There he went into business and prospered exceedingly for several years. When his only son Jacob was nineteen years of age, he visited his uncle in the state of New York, where he learned for the first time of his father's return and whereabouts. He at once started for Savannah, but on his arrival found that his father had died two years before, in 1804, and he was shown the spot where he was buried.

INDEXES.

As this book contains the genealogies of several families, that is to say, as it is really several books included in one, the only apparent method of avoiding endless confusion and making the index valuable, seemed to be to make out a separate index for each family. To index each name also seemed to be not worth the trouble involved as it would but add names that represented themselves only. Therefore the heads of families only in the pedigrees are given in the indexes, as any searcher should be presumed to know the name of an ancestor in some of the generations noted by the superior number attached. There is no particular reason for adding the prefix number except for ease in identifying the name on the page referred to. A full index of other names connected with these families by marriage seemed desirable, as well as of towns where some historical facts are given in reference to their settlement.
